Dear Lydia.

As far as Prison and Probation Services fields of responsibility, there are two locations, where non-citizens can be held of immigration-related reasons. It consists of a local prison, Aabenraa local prison and Ellebæk institution.

Besides that people can be detained in Remand Prison according to the Act of Alien.

Number of minors under 18 detained according to the Act of Alien in institutions under The Departement of Prisons and Probation (including the institution Ellebæk and Aabenraa local prison and including children brought along by parents):

2010:	146
2011(until nov. 8, 2011):	119

There are no informations from 2012.

1) it has not been possible to separate children brought along by parents in Ellebæk and Aabenraa 2) the same person can be transferred to one or several institutions during the detaining period and each transfer will in these cases be registered as a new detaining 3) the statistics are made up with significant uncertainty because of possible lack of documentation of age

Outside the Prison and Probation Services fields of responsibility asylum seekers are placed in red Cross Asylumcenters.

You might get more information of minors placed in any form of immigration-related detention, from the danish national police: [REDACTED] politi.dk or Red Cross.

Yours sincerely
